

One Saturday in December, the market was packed to the doors.

Grandpa?

Grandpa... where are you?

I remembered what he always told me: if you get lost, stay put.

And that nobody in Madrid whistles like a baker.

